

The Andrei Rozanov Files

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at <https://archiveofourown.org/works/74473356>.

Rating:	General Audiences
Archive Warning:	No Archive Warnings Apply
Category:	M/M
Fandoms:	Game Changers Series - Rachel Reid , Heated Rivalry (TV)
Relationship:	Shane Hollander/Ilya Rozanov
Characters:	Shane Hollander , Ilya Rozanov , Andrei Rozanov
Additional Tags:	Post-Canon , Press and Tabloids , Homophobia , Money Laundering and Fraud , that tag didn't exist but i want to make it a thing
Language:	English
Series:	Part 2 of Hit Post
Stats:	Published: 2025-11-20 Words: 2,128 Chapters: 1/1

The Andrei Rozanov Files

by nineteenohtwo

Summary

New York Post  @nypost

Andrei Rozanov blasts NHL-superstar brother Ilya: "Shocking lack of respect for real family"

Notes

Edit from like 3 months after I wrote it: GUYS this was written before the show dropped. That is why it is Andrei and not Alexei and why it says that Ilya has not met his "son" and whatever other things that are not canon in the show universe! This is based entirely on the book :))

See the end of the work for more notes

New York Post  @nypost

Andrei Rozanov blasts NHL-superstar brother Ilya: “Shocking lack of respect for real family”

rip montreal voyageurs @rebecca_jones never in my 27 years of age did i think i would see Alexander Hamilton’s New York Post do a hit piece on ilya rozanov

Jonah @rozanderluvr

Replying to @rebecca_jones

Now what the fuck did I miss

rip montreal voyageurs @rebecca_jones

Replying to @rebecca_jones @rozanderluvr

this absolute dogshit lmao trib.al/oDAS284L

NEW YORK POST

Andrei Rozanov: 'Ilya was very quick to abandon us when his career took off'

By Eloise Ferguson

One of Russia's most outspoken socialites isn't backing down from calling out his NHL-golden-boy brother, and he doesn't care who's offended.

"Father always wanted him to play in the KHL, but he refused." The 38-year-old told The Post in an exclusive sit-down. "Ilya has always been... impulsive, even when we were boys. It pains us to see him being called a hero of hockey while he keeps refusing to support the people who raised him."

"My brother Ilya, he let money and pride take his brain", Rozanov went on. "As soon as the NHL came knocking, he was gone like the wind. What a shame he didn't stay in Russia. He could have been a great man here."

The eldest son of the late high-ranking Russian officer Grigori Rozanov isn't shy about blasting his wayward sibling.

"Ilya has always had issues with right and wrong," he said sharply, "He does not care for our family. The last time I saw him was years ago, at the funeral for our beloved father. He has not met my son. He has not met my wife. Nothing."

Ilya Rozanov, who is married to Ottawa Centaurs teammate and former Montreal Voyageurs captain Shane Hollander, has repeatedly hinted to the press that his marriage is the reason he "cannot safely return" to Russia.

But when The Post pressed Andrei on whether he's ever met his brother's husband, he didn't miss a beat.

"I do not know this boy," he said, dismissively. "I do not know what Ilya wants with him. But Ilya always likes to spit on tradition. Our expectations for him were always low, but this is a shocking lack of respect to his real family, to the people who have given him everything he has."

Speaking to The Post over a video call from his glass-walled penthouse in the center of Moscow, Rozanov opened up about their childhood bond after the early death of their mother, Irina. A bond, he claims, Ilya has completely abandoned.

And when talk turned to the Irina Foundation, the mental-health charity Ilya and his husband founded, Rozanov's tone hardened instantly.

"Our mother Irina, she was not depressed. She was never mentally sick", he snapped. "Even the suggestion is an insult. Her death was nothing more than a tragic accident. Ilya goes to unbelievable lengths to rewrite our life, our mother, everything. He is trying to twist this into some Western fairytale to go along with his fancy new life.”

Read more...

Veronique @sticksidehoe not andrei doing a whole tell-all like calm down real housewife of moscow lana del rache @admiralgirllap

Replying to @sticksidehoe

every time a rozanov opens their mouth i need three advil and a nap

Viv @catparent

anyone up feeling really really really bad for ilya rozanov right now

Sasha @rozanovtopia

Replying to @catparent

Me

Joseph @cenzforlife

Replying to @catparent

Me

Janie from the block @cuckooohockey

Replying to @catparent

Me

Montreal Broyageurs @JacksonV75

Unpopular opinion: it's good that this homo bullshit gets some pushback for once

Graceeee @BarrettBabey

Replying to @JacksonV75

Worry less about wtf Rozanov does in his free time and worry more that your fuck ass team lost 7-1 to New York last week you bozo

bren @brenstweets

i can't believe a 38-year old grown man said "i do not know this boy" about his BROTHER'S 34-YEAR OLD HUSBAND. bro yes you do. you know he exists because you're MAD ABOUT IT

Joseph @cenzforlife

Replying to @brenstweets

i can feel shane hollander gearing up to score 68 goals this weekend out of spite toronto sufferer @guardiansaremycurse

Replying to @brenstweets

if my brother called my marriage an “insult to tradition” i would remove him from my will so hard our ancestors feel it

riri @boodslut

Andrei saying this shit from his GLASS pentHOUSE is so funny like what did the bible say

Ellie ❤️👉 @snelliee

Replying to @boodslut

Those who live in glass houses shall not do interviews with the New York Post

Willa @rozwhore

This all has a lot of “dad loved me more” energy and frankly i need andrei rozanov to buy a diary instead

duncan @leftcoastblues

Replying to @rozwhore

Broke: going to a therapist

Woke: doing a tell all in a disgraced right wing tabloid rag

Jonas Smith @JSmith_7

Replying to @rozwhore

Can we talk about how insane it is that this fool said “ilya could have been great” like that man won the conn smythe LAST YEAR

Dan (Deadline, Variety) @daytodaydan

Not naming any names but some of us in media are... stunned... that a certain publication ran that story without, you know, basic verification or hearing both sides

Dustin @dustinonthebeat

Replying to @daytodaydan

somewhere an ethics committee is screaming, crying and throwing up

Eva @EvaWritesHockey

Replying to @daytodaydan

You can name names dan lmao we know who you’re subtweeting

amelia @amskates

the fact that andrei basically said “i hate my stupid nhl superstar little brother” to a tabloid like it’s the family whatsapp is insane. Girllll just send him a TEXT

max @maximumchaos

Replying to @amskates

Ilya: exists

Andrei: he has abandoned the russian empire and spat on my cow NYP: sounds solid print that sugarplum haasy @rightwingerchaos can we check if andrei has a book coming out or something bc this smells like promo

the tortured pussy department @taylorsnhl

Replying to @rightwingerchaos

Nah this reads to me like a last-ditch desperate attempt to extort money out of his successful younger brother lol sugarplum haasy

Replying to @rightwingerchaos @taylorsnhl

eh i don't believe it'll be that obvious

Ilya Rozanov  @Rozanov81

Replying to @rightwingerchaos @taylorsnhl

No, the tortured pussy department is correct

The New York Times  @nytimes

Russian socialite Andrei Rozanov is reportedly under investigation by Russian authorities after millions of dollars go missing in alleged fraud scheme. This comes days after his controversial interview criticising his NHL-superstar brother nyti.ms/3X9BUD45

NEW YORK TIMES

The Andrei Rozanov Files: NHL-Superstar's Brother's Cultural Foundation Under Criminal Review

By Daria Lobanova

MOSCOW — The Russian Ministry of Culture confirmed late Friday that it has opened a formal investigation into the Rozanov Cultural Foundation, a high-profile nonprofit founded by the late Russian Senior Police General Grigori Rozanov and chaired by his son, Moscow socialite Andrei Rozanov, who also used to be active in the Russian police force. The investigation follows a damning independent audit that alleges large-scale financial misconduct, falsified records, and the diversion of more than a billion rubles in both donor and state funds.

According to the 147-page audit, obtained exclusively by The Moscow Times, the foundation, which was long touted as a champion of the preservation of Russian arts and culture, allegedly spent less than six percent of its operating budget on cultural programs. The remaining funds, as claimed by auditors, were routed through a complex network of shell companies and fake consulting entities tied to Rozanov and his close associates.

The inquiry centers on roughly 1.6 billion rubles (approximately $19.8 million) of unaccounted expenditures.

-

Amongst the most striking findings The Moscow Times could unearth were ₺41 million (approximately $509K) labeled as “historical restoration services”. This money was apparently directly paid to a luxury interior design firm that worked exclusively on Rozanov’s penthouse in Moscow’s city center.

More than ₺120 million (approximately $1.5 million) was rerouted to a consulting agency registered in Cyprus. This agency, according to corporate filings, had no real employees and lists Rozanov’s wife as its only director.

Several more frivolous purchases were also exposed: a modified Rolls Royce Phantom featuring custom embroidered seats with Rozanov’s initials and vanity license plates was purchased under the category “mobile exhibition transport”, gold-plated mirrors and toilet seats were selected under “sanitation support” and a gold-plated espresso machine and a collection of expensive Swiss watches were on record as “artifacts of European craftsmanship”.

Dozens of invoices bear signatures that handwriting analysts have identified as “highly likely forged”.

“These cannot be explained as simple accounting irregularities”, said Elena Jacobs, a former anti-corruption prosecutor advising the NYPD. “This is one of the most blatant cases of high-scale, intentional fraud we have seen in recent years.”

Russian sources close to the case claim that the investigation began after a newly hired junior accountant grew concerned about unverifiable expenditures. The accountant, whose identity is being withheld for safety reasons, resigned late November following alleged threats from Rozanov and his inner circle.

-

The Rozanov Cultural Foundation, which was founded in 2016, quickly became a fixture in elite circles. Donors included oligarchs, state ministries, celebrities and high-profile European patrons.

The Foundation’s annual “Brown Bear Gala” held this past June, reportedly cost ₱26 million (approximately $322K) to stage, including a champagne fountain valued at nearly ₱1.8 million (approximately $22K), paid for with a Foundation credit card.

The Ministry of Culture has temporarily seized control of the Rozanov Cultural Foundation, citing “urgent need to protect public assets”. Several of Rozanov’s personal accounts have also been frozen pending review.

-

Rozanov was reached for comment at his residence by The Moscow Times, but dismissed the allegations as “a disgusting political smear orchestrated by Western European-influenced interests”. When asked for clarification about his custom Rolls Royce, which featured prominently on his social media, Rozanov ended the call.

His wife, Yelizaveta Sokolova-Rozonova, declined to comment but has since deleted numerous photographs of the couple’s penthouse and lavish events from her social media accounts.

-

The scandal comes only days after Rozanov gave a viral interview to the New York Post, in which he sharply criticized his younger brother, NHL-player Ilya Rozanov, accusing him of impulsiveness, betraying tradition and abandoning the family.

Online speculation has intensified regarding whether the timing of the investigation is coincidental. Officials declined to comment on any connection.

When asked whether he believed Ilya Rozanov tipped off authorities, a Ministry of Culture spokesperson replied, “No. Our investigation is evidence-based”.

Ilya Rozanov, his representative or his team could not be reached for comment.

Gay Hockey News @hollanovupdates

Ilya Rozanov: hockey captain by day, international fraud investigator (????) by night????

emmy 🏒 @emmyeatsice

the financial scandal of the year AND the funniest thing that's happened to hockey twitter.
god bless ilya rozanov and the ground he walks on kayla @kaykayontheice

i wonder if the centaurs PR-person has fainted yet

Harris Drover @HarrisDCentaurs

Replying to @kaykayontheice

I've come close I'll tell you that

Ottawa Centaurs ✅ @OttawaCentaurs

Ilya Rozanov is not involved with the current situation surrounding his brother Andrei in Russia. He will aid the investigation where needed but @Rozanov81 wants to emphasize that his priorities remain his team and his family in Canada. #GoCens

Ben 🏹🐾 @BennyQ

Replying to @OttawaCentaurs

"His family IN CANADA" is sending me

Willa @rozwhore

Replying to @OttawaCentaurs

See this is exactly what I would get my PR team to say if i was involved in an international fraud investigation but didn't want people thinking i was involved in an international fraud investigation

kristy @kriscantskate

Do you know how evil you have to be for the russian government to freeze your assets?? that's like being disowned by the devil time-out tucker @WyattHayesBlues

if i was andrei i would simply not give the NEW YORK POST a family meltdown interview right before my Crimes™ dropped but that's just me

romain @romaingetsweird

Replying to @WyattHayesBlues

COMO SE DICE "INSTANT KARMA"

jules the fool @julesonthinice

when the fuck did being a Centaurs fan turn into succession i feel like i just watched two seasons of prestige drama

goalie obsessed sarah @smolHazy

Replying to @julesonthinice stop i've been saying that every twist feels like a new telenovela episode

Joan of Snark @elllistaylor

@ShaneHollanderHockeyPlayer how do you feel now that your husband is apparently an international fraud investigator?

Shane Hollander  @ShaneHollanderHockeyPlayer

Replying to @elllistaylor

I'd feel better if mr international fraud investigator would put the dog down for thirty seconds and help me clean the kitchen

Ilya Rozanov  @Rozanov81

Replying to @elllistaylor @ShaneHollanderHockeyPlayer

I do not know this boy

Ilya Rozanov  @Rozanov81

To the people who have given me everything I have

Photo 1: Shane holding Anya on the deck of their cottage

Photo 2: David, Yuna and Ilya making silly faces at the camera during what looks like Christmas time. They are wearing matching pyjamas

Photo 3: The Ottawa Centaurs holding the Stanley Cup

Photo 4: Ilya's mother, Irina

End Notes

Procrastinating real life work again!

It was very nice to read your comments last work, they really made my day. I hope you like this one!

(montreal voyageurs ur ass is next)

I have reactivated my dormant Tumblr account!

Works inspired by this one

[\[Cold Read\] The Andrei Rozanov Files by nineteenohtwo](#) by Nofsky8

Please drop by the Archive and comment to let the creator know if you enjoyed their work!