Summary

Shane starts a letterboxed. Ilya does too, for some reason.

From godzllas on twt: hollanov fic where someone forces shane to get letterboxd and fans start questioning what is going on bc ilya and shane keep logging the same movies

Notes

Takes place vaguely between 5&6 except Hayden kind of knows about who Boston Lily is just because and so does Yuna and things are a little nicer. I want happy . Timeline what timeline? I wrote this at 2am

See the end of the work for more notes

Shane's at his parents' house, eating plain oatmeal and reading a book about defensive strategies from the 1980s, when his mom corners him in the kitchen.

"You need a Letterboxd account."

He looks up from his book. "A what?"

"It's an app. For logging movies you watch." His mom crosses her arms. "You've been moping around the house for three weeks since the injury. You need a hobby that isn't hockey."

"I have hobbies."

"Reading about hockey is not a hobby, Shane."

"I also—"

"Going to the gym is not a hobby either." She gives him that look. The one that means this isn't a suggestion. "Make the account. Watch some movies. Do something that isn't staring at the ceiling thinking about the playoffs you're not in."

Shane wants to argue, but she's right. He's been impossible to live with since the concussion. Since Montreal got knocked out. Since—

He doesn't finish that thought.

"Fine," he sighs. "I'll make the account."

Ten minutes later, Shane has downloaded the app, created a username (S_Hollander24, because apparently ShaneHollander was taken), and is staring at the interface like it personally offended him.

His dad walks by, coffee in hand. "Your mother get to you?"

"Apparently I need to tell strangers what movies I watch."

"Could be worse," his dad says. "Could be ."

Shane grimaces. He's seen . He's seen what they say about the injury, about Montreal, about —

He really needs to stop thinking about it.

am i going insane or are two NHL players having the saddest movie night ever via letterboxd ok so. follow me here.

NHL player shane hollander (yes THE shane hollander, multiple cups, one of the best centers in the league) made a letterboxd account a few weeks ago. started rating wholesome shit like when harry met sally 5 stars.

then this account ILikeFilms83 starts watching literally every movie he logs. a day later. EVERY. SINGLE. ONE.

people thought it was trolling. turns out ILikeFilms83 is ilya rozanov. another NHL player. these guys have been RIVALS for like a decade. they've played against each other in the stanley cup finals TWICE.

but here's the thing. hollanov (their ship name, yes they have a ship name) has been a thing in hockey fandom for YEARS. like there are COMPILATIONS of them staring at each other. there was a whole documentary about their rivalry. they're obsessed with each other.

and then hollander got injured. montreal got knocked out of playoffs. rozanov's season ended too.

and now they're watching the same movies. at the same time. BEFORE SUNRISE. the most romantic movie ever made about two people connecting over one night.

what the FUCK is happening.

letterboxd: saving relationships one movie at a time

who would've thought

The credits roll on The Princess Bride as the cottage settles into that specific 2 AM quiet. Shane's been running his fingers through Ilya's curls for the last twenty minutes, watching his husband's face go soft with sleep.

Except Ilya isn't his husband. Not yet. Maybe not ever.

But he's here. He's real. He's solid and warm in Shane's lap, one hand still loosely holding Shane's phone where he'd been logging the movie. His other hand is tucked against Shane's stomach, and every few breaths he makes this small sound that Shane has memorized from hotel rooms and stolen mornings.

Shane thinks about the last few weeks. About being alone in his parents' house, trying to figure out who he was without hockey. About making a Letterboxd account because his mom was worried. About Ilya watching every movie a day later, like he was trying to close the distance between them one film at a time.

He thinks about Ilya quoting his When Harry Met Sally review. About the blue heart emoji. About "makes you believe in second chances."

"I love you," Shane whispers, so quiet Ilya can't possibly hear. He says it because he needs to practice. Because someday soon he'll need to say it for real, out loud, when Ilya's awake and looking at him with those blue eyes that see through every defense Shane's ever built.

He leans down and presses a soft kiss to Ilya's temple.

Ilya stirs, makes a small sound. His grip on Shane's phone tightens. His eyes don't open but his lips curve into the smallest smile.

"Ya tozhe tebya lyublyu," he mumbles, still mostly asleep.

Shane's breath catches. He knows that one. He's looked it up a dozen times, just to be sure.

I love you too.

"You're awake," Shane breathes.

"Little bit," Ilya admits, eyes still closed. "Did not want to move."

"Don't," Shane says quickly. "Don't move."

"Ok." Ilya's smile grows. "What are we watching tomorrow?"

"Haven't decided."

"We should watch Notting Hill."

"That's a terrible movie."

"Is romantic." Ilya finally opens his eyes, tilting his head back to look up at Shane. "You will like it."

"I won't."

"You will," Ilya insists. "Trust me."

Shane looks down at him—at this man who watched every movie Shane logged, who drove to the cottage because Shane finally asked, who just said I love you too when he thought Shane couldn't hear.

"Ok," Shane says softly. "I trust you."

Ilya's smile is the sun.

End Notes

All the quotes/replies around the initial prompt that inspired parts of the fic!

ummrys: the plausible deniability comes from Ilya logging them late so people first think Ilya is just watching the movies Shane does as an intimidation tactic buckdownbad: meanwhile Hayden is urging Shane to get a restraining order inxplicablymine: Ohhhhhh yes ~ Ilya doesn't have his account labeled w/ his name at first so people don't make the connection and then it gets outed and people are like he I just watching Shane's movies later to fuck w/ him BUT THEN HE POSTS A PHOTO ON INSTA of a movie @ the cottage they both log lioncourtera: the hollanov girlies immediately going "nah they fuckin"

And Hudson's letterboxed hcs for Shane's faves <3

Minor Edit: Thanks for all the love on the fic, I'm very sorry the timeline and details are weird. I wrote this when I had only just watched the show and nothing from the books, and was under some... misguided impressions as far as Anya and Canon and everything.
